Driving provides the freedom to go about everyday life, whether it be work or play.

The consequences of being disqualified from driving can be catastrophic. For many, it can affect the ability to work resulting in the loss of employment. For others, it can impact on family life and lead to difficulties in caring for dependents.

Instructing the right legal team to represent you is crucial. Our team of experienced motoring solicitors can make the difference between being legally permitted to drive and losing your licence.

By seeking specialist legal advice from the outset, we can help to ensure that any complexities and potential implications are effectively managed.

Having access to the right expertise can bring peace of mind at a time when you face uncertainty and concerns for what lies ahead.

From attending initial Police interviews, to providing leading defence representation and advocacy in the Magistrates' or Crown Courts, our team will support you each step of the way.
